It treats the mildest disorders such as rachialgia, various pains, postural problems, "simple" orthopedic pathologies, minor scoliosis, phonatory and minor speech disorders, temporomandibular, lymphatic and vascular pathologies of lesser severity. In addition, group therapies are proposed in which proprioceptive and postural techniques are applied and are aimed at people who wish to maintain good movement functionality, improve self-perception and postural attitude. Computerized assessments are also carried out with specific programs for language, neurocognitive and neuropsychological disorders. This allows you to effectively identify any disorders and make a diagnosis. More information is available in the specific brochure at the reception or on the website.
